

Swapalease.ca Helps Consumers Cut Their Budgets During the Current Economic Downturn

(CINCINNATI, Ohio April 29, 2009): The Labour Force Survey reported a decline in employment by 61,000 positions bringing unemployment to 7.7% at the end of March. In order to better deal with smaller budgets for many consumers, Swapalease.ca is helping rid them of their car payments, which can represent up to 15% of their budgets. This cut will help many consumers survive this economic downturn without going into debt and damaging credit.

One increasingly popular adjustment to consumers' budgets is to use public transportation to replace a high car and insurance payment each month. Other consumers are selling higher end vehicles in exchange for a low cost vehicle to help alleviate the financial squeeze. Another growing trend is a lease transfer; Swapalease.ca offers the opportunity to pick up leases with low monthly payments in addition to the opportunity for those with high lease payments to exit their lease early.

How does Swapalease.ca help consumers drop their car payment?

Swapalease.ca has already helped many consumers drop their car leases without penalty, freeing up much needed cash flow.
